

As a small farm operator I would be interested in research aimed toward natural foods that would enable the use of organic labeling for aquaculture products. Fish naturally survive and grow eating insects, so insect food base seems like the perfect idea. I know several Universities are involved in this using soldier fly larvae. This information could be distributed to those of us who are interested in doing our own research and development of this idea on a small owner operator type of aqua farm.
Thanks